780 Worthington Ridge

1930

Post Office

Worthington Historic District

Berlin Historic Society: Walking Tour of Berlin's Historic District

In early times the post office was a room in a general store or tavern. Berlin's post office has moved many times. This building is owned by the Coccomo Brothers, rented by the United States Postal Service, and manned by one postal employee. The interior maintain the old time service window and post boxes.

File of old houses in historic district

House is where the Post Office is now on Worthington Ridge

2018 Town of Berlin GIS Index.

1930 current owner: Coccomo Bros